CINIER'S AND CRAFTSMANSHIP

Technical excellence, creativity and style are the values of the family-owned company since 1975.

Michel Cinier, his daughter Johanne and son Stephane work together from a small town in the South of France crafting unique pieces.

Michel devised the technology, Johanne joined the company after working as a fashion designer for Givenchy in Paris and Stephane deals with the sales and marketing worldwide.

The radiators are handcrafted from Pyrenees stone which is reconstituted in a way which increases the healing properties of the natural material. Radiators often take the form of large sculptures, sleek and deliberately contemporary.

The technology works well with all types of energy, water, renewables and electricity. The product lines are the most energy efficient heating and cooling systems in the marketplace.

“Being surrounded by beauty is a way of living. Everyone has his vision. The most important thing is to make sense.”
